

Law Trove

Expand your learning, broaden your mind

Accessing your textbooks

You and your students need to be logged into your university network to gain access to Law Trove. Use the 'Sign in via your institution' option in the left-hand box on the homepage and follow the instructions.

Walkthrough videos

Walkthrough videos for Law Trove are available on our Customer Services 'User Guides' page on the Law Trove website.

These short videos will help you and your students get started using Trove. From logging in to adding DOI links to reading lists, the walkthroughs will help you make the most of your subscription.

Personal Profiles

In order to get the most out of Law Trove, students will need to create a Personal Profile. This is done by clicking the 'Personal Profile' button in the top right-hand corner of the homepage. Setting up a Personal Profile allows users to highlight and annotate text, bookmark important passages, and save searches.

Linking to reading

Use DOI links to direct your students to specific content for their studying. DOI links are available at book and chapter level on Law Trove.

6. Special duty problems: economic loss

Kirsty Horsey and Erika Rackley

<https://doi.org/10.1093/he/9780198830887.003.0006>

Published in print: 17 July 2019 | Published online: September 2019

Casebook on Tort Law (16th edn)

<https://doi.org/10.1093/he/9780192893659.001.0001>

ISBN: 9780192893659

Publisher: Oxford University Press

MARC records

MARC21 records are available for all Trove titles and published in UTF-8. To support differing librarian workflows, we publish MARC records as a complete set and provide additions and deletions files for those preferring to manage new and leaving content. They are available on Law Trove here and also through the following partners.

- OCLC: All OCLC customers with a cataloguing subscription have access to our records through Collection Manager.
- ExLibris: All customers of Alma.
- BDS: All customers of Academic Libraries Live.

OUP also publishes KBART files which are posted on our website in the same place. We work closely with our partners EBSCO, ExLibris and OCLC to provide collections through their respective discovery services.

Wider resources

It is possible to navigate to resources beyond the Law Trove site. At book level, beneath the book cover on the left-hand side of the webpage is a button that offers to 'Find Print Edition in Library'. Each site also features 'Find it in your library' buttons in the Further Reading lists found at the end of each chapter.

Further reading

- A. J. Baker, 'The Judicial Approach to "Impact of the Human Rights Act 1998"' [2019] Journal of Human Rights 1, 1-15

Find it in your library | Google Preview

Land Law (3rd edn)

<https://doi.org/10.1093/he/9780192856760.001.0001>

ISBN: 9780192856760

Publisher: Oxford University Press

Search within this book...

Find Print Edition in Library

Metadata for the bibliographic reference is passed to the catalogue via an OpenURL resolver, and the relevant results from the library are shown (e.g. print/online, and whether they are available to borrow or out on loan).

Metadata from Law Trove is live within EBSCO, OCLC, Summon, and ExLibris. As a librarian, you may need to change the URL preferences to the address for your e-catalogue in your SAMS account.

Accessibility

Oxford University Press is striving to make its products accessible to and inclusive of all our users, including those with visual, hearing, cognitive, or motor impairments.

Law Trove complies with applicable law relating to accessibility (including with the obligations under The Equality Act 2010) and much of the Trove platforms are already accessible in accordance with WCAG 2.1.

Read our accessibility statements on Law Trove.

Usage

Oxford University Press provides online usage statistics to customers in accordance with the COUNTER Code of Practice, Release 5. You can self-serve usage data or you can contact your OUP implementation partner to discuss usage and find out more information.

Help & contact

To find out more information about downloading MARC records, setting URL preferences, and title lists, please visit our Customer Services page for Law Trove.

Here you will also find our suite of materials to help get you started using the platforms, including tutorial videos and information on training webinars run by Oxford University Press.

If you have any further queries, please contact your implementation partner.