6. Scope of application

This chapter first defines the key concepts of ‘state responsibility’ and ‘jurisdiction’. It then identifies the duty-bearers and beneficiaries of human rights law, explains the instances in which a state is held responsible for the actions or omissions of particular persons or entities, and, finally, addresses the extra-territorial scope of application of human rights law.

Access to the complete content on Law Trove requires a subscription or purchase. Public users are able to search the site and view the abstracts and keywords for each book and chapter without a subscription.

Please subscribe or login to access full text content.
6. Scope of application