2. Books, journals, and articles

Criminology Skills (3rd edn)
Emily Finch and Stefan Fafinski

Publisher: Oxford University Press  Print Publication Date: Aug 2019
Print ISBN-13: 9780198799818  Published online: Sep 2019
DOI: 10.1093/he/9780198799818.001.0001

© Emily Finch and Stefan Fafinski 2019

2. Books, journals, and articles

Chapter: (p. 12) 2. Books, journals, and articles

Author(s): Emily Finch and Stefan Fafinski

DOI: 10.1093/he/9780198799818.003.0002

This chapter first explains the nature of different books, journals, and articles encountered in the study of criminology. It introduces textbooks, edited collections, books of key readings, monographs, and dictionaries, together with journals as a key source of latest developments, research findings, criticism, and commentary. It moves on to consider how to find books and articles specified on a reading list. It then considers more generally how to find materials on a particular topic by developing a search strategy and using databases to locate relevant literature.

Access to the complete content on Law Trove requires a subscription or purchase. Public users are able to search the site and view the abstracts and keywords for each book and chapter without a subscription.

Please subscribe or login to access full text content.
2. Books, journals, and articles

If you have purchased a print title that contains an access code, please see the information provided with the code or instructions printed within the title for information about how to register your code.

For questions on access or troubleshooting, please check our FAQs, and if you can't find the answer there, please contact us.