Titles in the Core Text series take the reader straight to the heart of the subject, providing focused, concise, and reliable guides for students at all levels. This chapter examines the applications of the general principles of the offer and the acceptance requirement in the law of contract in specific problem areas which raise offer and acceptance principles. These issues concern intention to create legal relations, unilateral mistake, and the effect of signing a contract (considering the L'Estrange v Graucob case) and the doctrine of non est factum.
