11. Licences and proprietary estoppel

Land Law Concentrate: Law Revision and Study Guide (6th edn)
Victoria Sayles

Publisher: Oxford University Press  Print Publication Date: Aug 2018
Print ISBN-13: 9780198815198  Published online: Oct 2018
DOI: 10.1093/he/9780198815198.003.0011

Chapter: (p. 167)  11. Licences and proprietary estoppel

Author(s): Victoria Sayles

DOI: 10.1093/he/9780198815198.003.0011

Each Concentrate revision guide is packed with essential information, key cases, revision tips, exam Q&As, and more. Concentrates show you what to expect in a law exam, what examiners are looking for, and how to achieve extra marks. This chapter discusses licences. A licence is permission given by the licensor to the licensee to allow the latter to enter the land of the former, which, without such permission would otherwise amount to a trespass. Different types of licences have different rules in relation to the original parties and successors in title. A bare licence is revocable by the licensor and does not bind a third party. A licence coupled with an interest, ie a profit à prendre, may be irrevocable and may bind a third party whilst the interest remains. Contractual licences arise under the terms of a contract. An estoppel licence arises as a result of a representation by the licensor and a detrimental reliance by the licensee. It is binding between these two parties but is also capable of binding a third party.
11. Licences and proprietary estoppel

Access to the complete content on Law Trove requires a subscription or purchase. Public users are able to search the site and view the abstracts and keywords for each book and chapter without a subscription.

Please subscribe or login to access full text content.

If you have purchased a print title that contains an access code, please see the information provided with the code or instructions printed within the title for information about how to register your code.

For questions on access or troubleshooting, please check our FAQs, and if you can't find the answer there, please contact us.