This chapter examines a range of ethico-legal issues as the impact on children. The focus is on consent of mature minors, and the limits therefore, and also on the range of rights and responsibilities relating to children concerning protection of their personal data. The chapter then discusses ethical and legal aspects of non-therapeutic research on children; therapeutic research on children; foetal research and experimentation; and embryos and embryonic stem cell research.