This chapter examines the law on data protection and data exclusivity. It focuses on the new GDPR Regulation. It covers rules on lawful processing of personal data, on the security of the processing, on the transparency of the processing, and on promoting compliance. It also discusses the rights of the data subject, the transfer of personal data to third countries, and the period of data exclusivity granted to the pharmaceutical sector independent of any form of patent protection.

Access to the complete content on Law Trove requires a subscription or purchase. Public users are able to search the site and view the abstracts and keywords for each book and chapter without a subscription.

Please subscribe or login to access full text content.