15. Completing the puzzle

This chapter ties together all of the different strands of knowledge from the preceding chapters, and shows how they fit together in practice. By looking at a register of title for an imaginary piece of land in ‘Maryford, Greenfordshire’, it provides a step-by-step guide through each of the entries on the register, to build up a complete picture of all of the rights and interests in the land. The discussions cover the register of title, the property register; the proprietorship register, the charges register, and interests not shown on the register. It highlights the main points of substantive law which have been discussed in detail in each of the chapters of the book.

Access to the complete content on Law Trove requires a subscription or purchase. Public users are able to search the site and view the abstracts and keywords for each book and chapter without a subscription.
15. Completing the puzzle

Please subscribe or login to access full text content.

If you have purchased a print title that contains an access code, please see the information provided with the code or instructions printed within the title for information about how to register your code.

For questions on access or troubleshooting, please check our FAQs, and if you can't find the answer there, please contact us.